"What is Women's Studies Librarianship?"

Women's Studies Section Midwinter Discussion
New Orleans

Monday, January 12, 1998
9:30 - 11:00 a.m.

The Women's Studies Section discussion meeting in New Orleans will be Monday morning, January 12, from 9:30 - 11:00 a.m.

Our topic this year gets down to basics: what is Women's Studies librarianship? How is this realized at different institutions, and in different kinds of positions? The discussion will provide the opportunity for experienced members to re-energize by hearing what's happening in Women's Studies at other libraries; for newer members, it will provide a good overview of what's going on in the field.

Come, bring a colleague, and be ready to talk about your current experiences, both difficulties and successes.
Notes from the Chair

Greetings all!

There are a lot of exciting things going on in the Women's Studies Section right now, and I want to mention just a few of them here.

Included in this issue of the newsletter you'll find a WSS Membership Survey. The primary purpose of the survey is to find out more about who you are, and how women's studies fits in with your professional lives. From this information we hope to better inform ourselves about the needs of the membership, and in particular, what we can do in the way of programming and other activities to meet those needs in creative and challenging ways. The survey should take only a couple of minutes of your time, and the greater the response, the more we'll learn - so please don't forget to complete it and send it in!

Speaking of defining who we are and what we do, I'd like to urge all those attending Midwinter in New Orleans to come to the WSS Discussion Meeting on Monday, from 9:30 to 11 a.m., entitled "What is Women's Studies Librarianship?" It promises to be an active, eye-opening discussion for both new and experienced members (please see the general announcement of the Discussion Meeting on page 1 of this issue).

I'd also like to mention a recent letter that went out from the Executive Committee, at the impetus of Kris Gerhard, Vice-Chair/Chair-Elect. The letter was sent to the Worst Serial Title Change of the Year Committee (ALCTS-SS), in response to their decision to include a "most politically correct title change award." What was being ridiculed with this award was the title change of Churchman's Human Quest to Human Quest. If you'd like a copy of the letter, or more information on this, please contact Kris Gerhard (kgerhard@iastate.edu).

Finally, discussion is underway about creating a WSS award. The idea to do this was brought up by Bonnie Jean Cox, Past Chair, at last Annual, and there seems to be a lot of interest and energy towards getting this up and going. If you have ideas or suggestions relating to this, please send them to me (jessica.grim@oberlin.edu).

And last but not least, if you're going to be in New Orleans, don't forget to come by the Women's Studies Section Social Hour (Sunday 6 - 7 p.m. in the lobby of the Royal Sonesta Hotel, 300 Bourbon Street); even if (or especially if) you've never been actively involved in the Section, this is a great opportunity to meet other Section members, and have a good time!

Women's Studies Section
Survey of Membership, 1997

The Women's Studies Section is interested in learning more about its membership, and what kinds of connections, if any, members have with women's studies both within the library and institutionally. Please take a moment to fill out this questionnaire. Results will help us better understand who you are, and give us a valuable tool both for evaluating our current structure and programming, and for planning future activities that are responsive to the needs and interests of the membership.

Please send completed forms to Jessica Grim (address at end of form).

Thank you in advance for your time!

1. What type of institution do you work in?

HIV/AIDS INFORMATION FOR WOMEN:
From the Archive to the Street

The annual program sponsored by ACRL Women's Studies Section was a lively and diverse panel presentation. Topics included the history of women and AIDS, information sources for documenting and researching women and AIDS, and a performance piece used successfully in educating women about safe sex. Presentations were given by Will Walker, archivist for the San Francisco Performing Arts Library and previously archivist for the AIDS History Project, Cristina Campbell from the Public Health Library at University of California - Berkeley, and by Lani Ka'ahamanu and the Safer Sex Sluts. The panel was moderated by Ellen Broidy, library publications officer of University of California - Irvine.

Mr. Walker demonstrated that from the very beginning AIDS was not a gay, white-male disease. He cited as evidence an early case in which four members of the same family, including children, succumbed to AIDS and the fact that their care giver became a medical expert for the AIDS community. He also spoke to the many ways women were vulnerable and involved with AIDS from the very beginning. Women care-givers, community organizers, safe-sex advisers, and lesbians were affected. The AIDS History project collected organizational records, surveys, community publications, and ephemera. It operated with an advisory board drawn from various constituencies.

Cristina Campbell described the library collections and staff at the Berkeley Public Health Library. She went on to discuss a variety of information resources on AIDS and talked about the percentage of titles or data devoted to women. She analyzed and tracked from 1987 the rate of records relevant to women. Earliest findings revealed 8 of 343 records cataloged to indicate specific relevance to women. Today 3.5% of all records indicate special attention to women. She reviewed her bibliography on AIDS, leading participants to good current titles. In addition, she spoke about the growth of AIDS information that, in her experience, has gone from a clippings file to several comprehensive Internet sites including the UC Berkeley site and JAMA's HIV/AIDS Center. Campbell concluded that the availability of AIDS information has greatly improved in recent years.

The Safer Sex Sluts are performance artists who emphasize finding audience-appropriate performances to educate. They received a Lyon-Martin Women's Health grant to do HIV prevention education for Lesbian/Bi-sexual women. Lani Ka'ahamanu demonstrated the group's method of educating women, and spoke of their history in becoming comfortable in various venues and with different audiences. The presentation ended with a strip-tease to the tune of "Marion, the Librarian" from Music Man, intended to demonstrate a safe sex device.

Curious about the Section?
The “Orientation Guide for Committees and Officers” is now available at the WSS Web site (http://www.lib.siu.edu/dcallaha/wsshp.html). It includes the basic procedures to be followed by the Section in relation to ALA and ACRL and useful information for incoming committee chairs and the newsletter editors. The topics covered are: Section Calendar, Committee Tasks and Services, Section Officers and Committee Structure, Documentation and Archives Guidelines, and WSS Committee Charges.

Program Committee Members Needed!

We are looking for members who would like to serve on the Program Committee for the 1999 program at Annual Conference, when we’ll be back in New Orleans. If you are interested, please contact Vice-Chair, Kris Gerhard (kgerhard@iastate.edu or 515/294-4861). We will meet at Midwinter to set things in motion, and settle on a program topic. If you have ideas to contribute, please contact Kris.
Kudos and News

Please send news items to Emily Silverman at essilverman@library.umass.edu

Five members of the 1996-97 Technical Services Committee of the WSS have completed their article evaluating the four new CD-ROM products in Women's Studies—Women's Studies on Disc, Women's Resources International, Women 'R,' and Contemporary Women's Issues. The article, entitled, "From Zero to Four: A Review of Four New Women's Studies CD-ROM Products," will appear in the Fall issue of Serials Librarian. The authors, Ruth Dickstein, Marcia Evans, Lisa German, Jessica Grim, and Sandra River, studied the products for a year, and made a preliminary report of their findings at the 1997 Midwinter meeting.

Bonnie Jean Cox, during this coming fiscal year will work half-time as Collection Development Librarian and half-time as the Humanities Electronic Text Librarian on the Information Services (Reference) team at the University of Kentucky. She will identify and purchase electronic resources in the humanities, and work with patrons in the use of these resources. As of July 1, 1998, this job will become Bonnie's full-time responsibility.

Kris Gerhard, Mila C. Su, and Charlotte C. Rubens announce their article, "An Empirical Examination of Subject Headings for Women's Studies Core Materials," based on a research project conducted by the WSS Technical Services Committee, will be published in the November or January issue of College and Research Libraries.

Martha Henn assumed the position of Reference/Government Documents Librarian at Birmingham-Southern College Library in Birmingham, AL on August 1, 1997.

Necia Parker-Gibson, reference librarian, recently received tenure and was promoted to associate professor at Mullins Library at the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville.

Sue Searing has taken a leave of absence from the University of Wisconsin-Madison and is serving as visiting librarian at the University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign. She is Head, Research and Planning - User Services, and is also acting Library and Information Science Librarian. You can reach Sue at 306 Library 1408 West Gregory Drive Urbana, IL 61801 217/333-4456 searing@uiuc.edu

Susan Turkel began work in July 1997 as the Instructional Technology Coordinator for the Social Sciences at Bryn Mawr College. She acquires, organizes, and makes accessible large social science datasets to the Bryn Mawr community, and helps social science faculty to incorporate technology into their teaching and research. Susan graduated in May from Rutgers/SCILS with an MLS, and while there worked part-time in the Douglass Library as an Information Assistant.
